

Our findings are in agreement with those of Kohrt et al. (12), who observed a positive high-impact loading effect on femoral neck BMD in postmenopausal women. The training program involved